Women's History Month @ the Hoboken Public Library

Women's History Month Reading

The Hoboken Public Library celebrates Women's History with Don't Call Me Inspirational: a literary reading on Thursday, March 14th at 6:00pm. Artist, writer and disability activist Harilyn Rouso will read from her newly released memoir, Don't Call Me Inspirational: A Disabled Feminist Talks Back which Gloria Steinem called "...irresistible to read, honest, insightful and universal." Joining Harilyn will be poets Jennifer Barlett, and Ona Gritz. Jennifer is the editor of Beauty Is a Verb: The New Poetry of Disability, a 2012 ALA Notable Poetry Book called by Publisher's Weekly, "Usual and powerful". Ona is the author of the poetry book Left Standing, a columnist on disability and mothering for Literary Mama, and a contributor to Beauty is a Verb.

Celebrate Women's History Month with Martha Stevens

On March 20, 6:30 PM, join us for a special Women's History Month celebration of the life and contributions of Martha Bayard Stevens, New Jersey Philanthropist and Social Reformer. Mrs. Stevens funded the construction of the Hoboken Public Library and established the Industrial Education Association, dedicated to teaching the young women of Hoboken. Throughout the month pictures and information about Martha Stevens will be displayed in the third floor gallery.

On March 20 at 1:15 PM, Hoboken Actress, Florence Pape, will give a special afternoon presentation of her monologue in the persona of Martha Stevens for the young adults of Hoboken. The monologue was written by Hoboken Public Library

Board Member, Arturo Martinez and based on research done by Hoboken Library Board President, Allen Kratz.

Steve Abrams will present "Puppet Theatre- Inside and Out" on Mar. 16 at 2 PM. This is a great introduction to puppet theatre for the whole family, featuring Aesop's Fables. The program will be hosted by Hoboken's historical heroine, Martha Stevens, who will be serving refreshments. Please reserve your tickets online through Eventbrite on the library's homepage: hobokenlibrary.org.

Teen Poetry Reading

The Young Adult Department will host it's annual poetry reading to honor Women's History Month on March 22 at 2 PM. Hoboken students will share poems by Women Poets.
